QUESTION 1: HOW DID THE DUTCH COLONISE THE CAPE IN THE 1600s IN SOUTH AFRICA?

SOURCE A

The following source comments on the impact of Dutch colonization at the Cape.

The VOC (Dutch East India Company) did not plan to have a large colony at the Cape. Settlers were initially only permitted (allowed) to farm in order to provide the Company outpost (station) and ships en route between the East Indies and Europe with essential foodstuffs. But by the end of the 17th century grain production had developed and wine was also being made, immigrants from Europe were settling on the land and colonial and colonial stock farmers were steadily moving onto the grazing lands of the Khoikhoi herders. Slave labour was imported elsewhere from Africa, South and South-East Asia to work on the settler farms, and a small urban community was developing around the fort and harbor in Cape Town.

From as early as 1689 conflict (fights) between the Dutch and the Khoikhoi was common. A series of raids (attacks) for cattle by both parties and confrontations (fights) marked the whole period of VOC rule at the Cape. In the 1670s the Khoikhoi of the Cape Peninsula and its hinterland (neighborhood) were defeated in a series of VOC raids. From then on some Khoikhoi began to work alongside imported slaves as labourers on the settler farms, a clear sign of the loss of economic independence.

From The Making of Modern South Africa by Nigel Worden

The following adapted source explains why the Dutch decided to bring slaves at the Cape.

The Dutch under Commander Jan van Riebeeck, were overwhelmed (made speechless) by the difficulties they faced in Table Bay. Survival and the establishment of a successful refreshment station proved much more difficult than they had imagined. Everything pointed to the same disastrous (bad) failures befalling (happening to) the Dutch as had been the case of settlements by others in East Africa and Madagascar.

The key factor was the lack of a mass labour force to clear bush, plough the land and to gather the stone and timber for building. The indigenous (local) population was in resistance mode and refused to offer assistance. The only way forward for the settlers was to import slaves to do this back-breaking work and later to provide the craftsmanship, finishes and comforts.

The first slave that came to the Cape was Abraham van Batavia in 1653. A trickle of slaves followed until 1658 when a few hundred slaves from Angola and the coast of Guinea arrived in the Cape.

From New Generations History Grade 10 (2011)

SOURCE 1C

This is an extract that comments on the Khoisan-Dutch War

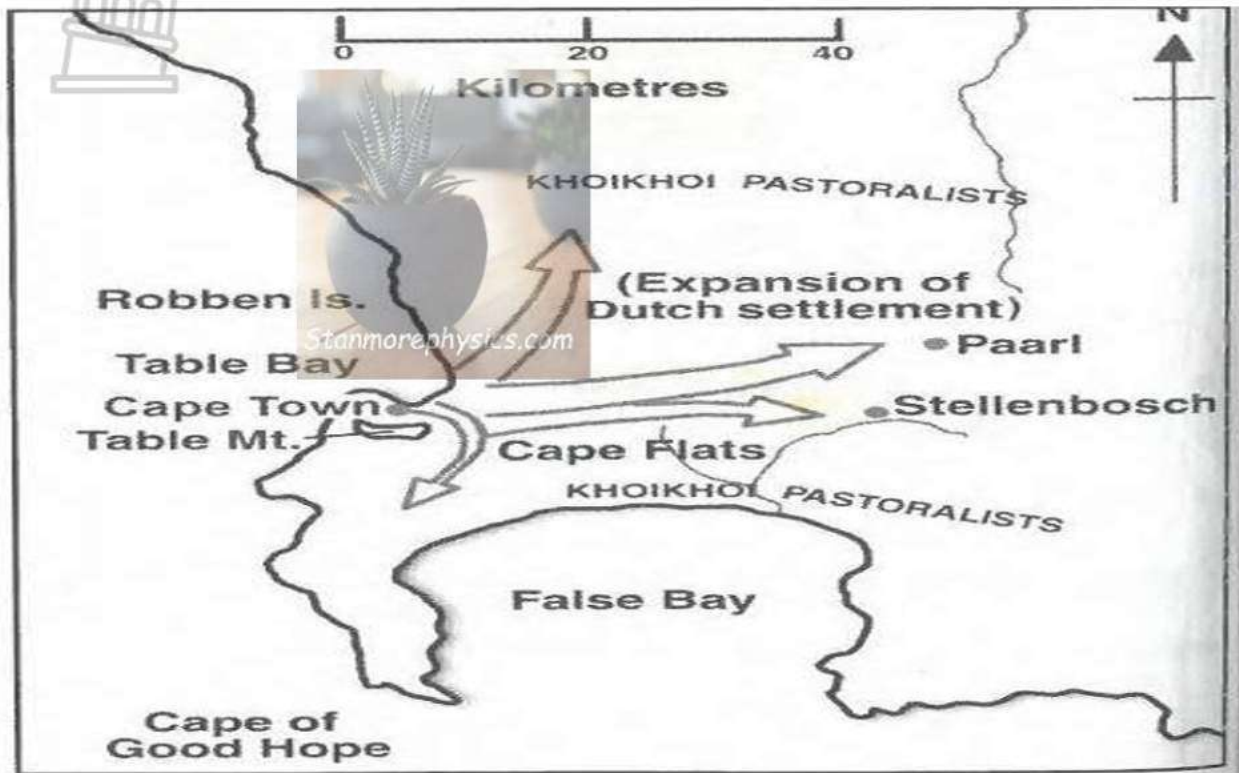

"Thus claiming "right of conquest", van Riebeeck simply overrode (put down) all Khoisan protests and the free burghers remained in occupation of the Cape Peninsula. There after they simply assumed that all Khoisan land, no matter where it be, was free and "empty land" and theirs to take.

The main significance of the Dutch settlement at the Cape was that it was not simply like another powerful pastoral group. The establishment of a European export market at the Cape steadily drained the region of its indigenous livestock. This stimulated the Company's traders, and raiders into ever-deeper penetration of the interior. In doing so the company exploited age-old rivalries (fights) between Khoisan clans, turning them against each other for the sake of the cattle captured as booty (spoils). The brief Khoisan unity of 1659-60 was never recaptured in the struggle that followed. The second Khoi/Dutch war of 1673-77 was mainly a series of cattle raids, as Company officers persuaded impoverished (poor) Khoisan clans to unite with them in attacking the powerful Cochoqua clan who had rejected the Company's trading approaches. The war concluded (ended), leaving the Cochoqua weakened and the Company with a large booty of the cattle and ship."

MARKING GUIDELINES

1. SOURCE-BASED QUESTIONS

1.1 The following cognitive levels were used to develop source-based questions:

Cognitive Levels	Historical skills	Weighting of questions
LEVEL 1	<ul style="list-style-type: none">● Extract evidence from sources● Selection and organization of relevant information from sources● Define historical concepts/terms	40% (20)
LEVEL 2	<ul style="list-style-type: none">● Interpretation of evidence from sources● Explain information gathered from sources● Analyse evidence from sources	40% (20)
LEVEL 3	<ul style="list-style-type: none">● Interpret and evaluate evidence from sources● Engage with sources to determine its usefulness, reliability, bias and limitations● Compare and contrast interpretations and perspectives presented in sources and draw independent conclusions	20% (10)

1.2 The information below indicates how source-based questions are assessed:

- In the marking of source-based questions, credit needs to be given to any other valid and relevant viewpoints, arguments, evidence or examples.
- In the allocation of marks, emphasis should be placed on how the requirements of the question have been addressed.
- In the marking guideline, the requirements of the question (skills that need to be addressed) as well as the level of the question are indicated in italics.

1.3 Assessment procedures for source-based questions

- Use a tick (✓) for each correct answer
- Pay attention to the mark scheme e.g. (2 x 2) which translates to two reasons and is given two marks each (✓✓✓✓); (1 x 2) which translates to one reason and is given two marks (✓✓)
- If a question carries 4 marks, then indicate by placing 4 ticks (✓✓✓✓)

Paragraph question

Paragraphs are to be assessed globally (holistically). Both the content and structure of the paragraph must be taken into account when awarding a mark. The following steps must be used when assessing a response to a paragraph question:

- Read the paragraph and place a bullet (•) at each point within the text where the candidate has used relevant evidence to address the question.
- Re-read the paragraph to evaluate the extent to which the candidate has been able to use relevant evidence to write a paragraph
- At the end of the paragraph indicate the ticks (✓) that the candidate has been awarded for the paragraph; as well as the level (1, 2, or 3) as indicated in the holistic rubric and a brief comment e.g.

_____ • _____ • _____
_____ • _____ • _____

Level 2

Used mostly relevant evidence to write a basic paragraph

- Count all the ticks for the source-based question and then write the mark on the right-hand bottom margin e.g.

32
50
- Ensure that the total mark is transferred accurately to the front/back cover of the answer script.

1. ESSAY QUESTIONS

2.1 The essay questions require candidates to:

- Be able to structure their argument in a logical and coherent manner. They need to select, organize and connect the relevant information so that they are able to present a reasonable sequence of facts or an effective argument to answer the question posed. It is essential that an essay has an introduction, a coherent and balanced body of evidence and a conclusion.

2.2 Marking of essay questions

- Markers must be aware that the content of the answer will be guided by the textbooks in use at the particular centre.
- Candidates may have any other relevant introduction and/or conclusion than those included in a specific essay marking guideline for a specific essay.
- When assessing open-ended source-based questions, learners should be credited for any other relevant answers.

2.3 Global assessment of the essay

The essay will be assessed holistically (globally). This approach requires the teacher to score the overall product as a whole, without scoring the component parts separately. This approach encourages the learner to offer an individual opinion by using selected factual evidence to support an argument. The learner will not be required to simply regurgitate 'facts' in order to achieve a high mark. This approach discourages learners from preparing 'model' answers and reproducing them without taking into account the specific requirements of the question. Holistic marking of the essay credits learners' opinions supported by evidence. Holistic assessment, unlike content-based marking, does not penalize language inadequacies as the emphasis is on the following:

- The construction of argument
- The appropriate selection of factual evidence to support such argument
- The learner's interpretation of the question.

2.4 Assessment procedures of the essay

2.4.1 Keep the synopsis in mind when assessing the essay.

2.4.2 During the reading of the essay ticks need to be awarded for a relevant introduction (indicated by a bullet in the marking guideline/memorandum), each of the main points/aspects that is properly contextualized (also indicated by bullets in the marking guideline/memorandum) and a relevant conclusion (indicated by a bullet in the marking guideline/memorandum) e.g. in an answer where there are 5 main points there will be 7 ticks.

2.4.3 Keep the PEEL structure in mind in assessing an essay.

P	Point: The candidate introduces the essay by taking a line of argument/ making a major point. Each paragraph should include a point that sustains the major point (line of argument) that was made in the introduction.
E	Explanation: The candidate should explain in more detail what the main point is about and how it relates to the question posed (line of argument).
E	Example: Candidates should answer the question by selecting content that is relevant to the line of argument. Relevant examples should be given to sustain the line of argument.
L	Link: Candidates should ensure that the line of argument is sustained throughout and is written coherently.

2.4.4 The following additional MUST be used when assessing an essay:

- Introduction, main aspects and conclusion not properly contextualized

- Wrong statement

- Irrelevant statement

- Repetition

R

- Analysis

$A\sqrt{\quad}$

- Interpretation

2.5 The matrix

2.5.1 Use of the matrix in the marking of essays

In the marking of essays, the criteria as provided in the matrix should be used. When assessing the essay note both the content and presentation. At the point of intersection of the content and presentation based on the seven competency levels, a mark should be awarded.

	(a)	The first reading of essays will be to determine to what extent the main aspects have been covered and to allocate the content level (on the matrix). stanmorephysics.com

QUESTION 2: ESSAY QUESTION

[Plan and construct an original argument based on relevant evidence using analytical and interpretative skills]

SYNOPSIS

Candidates need to explain whether they agree that the Dutch colonization of the Cape had an impact on the lives of the Khoisan societies at the Cape. They should use historical evidence to support their answer.

Candidates should include the following aspects in their response:

MAIN ASPECTS

- Introduction: Candidates need to take a stance stating whether they agree that the Dutch colonization of the Cape had an impact on the lives of the Khoisan societies at the Cape and explain how they will approach the essay.

ELABORATION:

- When the Dutch started farming in the Cape, the Khoi was forced off their land
- Dutch farms blocked access to water and pastures which the Khoi has used for centuries
- There was fierce resistance from the Khoi, but after a series of wars the Khoi was forced away from their areas into the interior of the Cape
- As the Dutch spread and the Khoi lost more land = eventually losing their independence as the frontier (border) or the colony moved further in land
- Many Khoi ended up working on Dutch farms as servants or herders
- Some withdrew into dry regions to maintain independence but struggled due to difficult environmental conditions
- Some went to work at mission stations set up by Christian churches
- The San hunter-gatherers who lived in the interior were also affected by the Dutch
- They lost their hunting grounds and many were killed in their fight against the settlers
- Those who survived moved into dry regions like Kalahari areas
- Another result of the Dutch was the introduction of diseases; small-pox had a particularly terrible impact

- Local people had no resistance
- Thousands of Khoi died in small-pox epidemics; +/- 90% of Khoi died.
- Later the Xhosas and Tswanas were also affected by these epidemics
- Any other relevant point
- Conclusion: Candidates must tie up their argument with relevant conclusion.
