INSTRUCTIONS AND INFORMATION

1. This question paper consists of SECTION A and SECTION B based on the prescribed content framework in the CAPS document.

SECTION A: SOURCE-BASED QUESTIONS

QUESTION 1: COMMUNISM IN RUSSIA: 1900–1940

QUESTION 2: CAPITALISM IN THE USA: 1900–1940

QUESTION 3: IDEAS OF RACE IN THE LATE 19TH AND 20TH CENTURIES

SECTION B: ESSAY QUESTIONS

QUESTION 4: COMMUNISM IN RUSSIA: 1900–1940

QUESTION 5: CAPITALISM IN THE USA: 1900–1940

QUESTION 6: IDEAS OF RACE IN THE LATE 19TH AND 20TH CENTURIES

2. SECTION A consists of THREE source-based questions. Source material that is required to answer these questions can be found in the ADDENDUM.
3. SECTION B consists of THREE essay questions.
4. Answer THREE questions as follows:
  - 4.1 At least ONE must be a source-based question and at least ONE must be an essay question.
  - 4.2 The THIRD question may be either a source-based question or an essay question.
5. You are advised to spend at least ONE hour per question.
6. When answering the questions, you should apply your knowledge, skills and insight.
7. You will be disadvantaged by merely rewriting the sources as answers.
8. Number the answers correctly according to the numbering system used in this question paper.
9. Write neatly and legibly.

SECTION A: SOURCE-BASED QUESTIONS

Answer at least ONE question in this section, but not more than TWO questions. The source material that is required to answer these questions is contained in the ADDENDUM.

QUESTION 1: HOW DID THE INTRODUCTION OF THE NEP REPRESENT A SHIFT IN BOLSHEVIK THINKING?

Study Sources 1A, 1B, 1C and 1D and answer the questions that follow.

1.1 Refer to Source 1A.

- 1.1.1 When, according to the source, was the New Economic Policy introduced? (1 x 1) (1)
- 1.1.2 Define the term Civil War in your own words. (1 x 2) (2)
- 1.1.3 Why, according to the source, did Lenin take a new approach? (3 x 1) (3)
- 1.1.4 Using the source and your own knowledge, explain why the introduction of the tax-in-kind was seen as the backbone of the NEP. (2 x 2) (4)
- 1.1.5 Comment on why Lenin insisted that the NEP had to be pursued "seriously and for a long time". (2 x 2) (4)

1.2 Study Source 1B.

- 1.2.1 Define the term tax-in-kind in the context of the New Economic Policy. (1 x 2) (2)
- 1.2.2 Why, according to the source, did the country soon face a famine? (2 x 1) (2)
- 1.2.3 Quote evidence from the source that shows that the peasants knew how much the fixed tax would be. (1 x 2) (2)
- 1.2.4 Explain what Lenin meant when he said, "The peasants will now set to work on their farms with greater confidence and with a will". (2 x 2) (4)
- 1.2.5 Using the information in the source and your own knowledge, explain why Lenin believed the New Economic Policy needed to consider the peasants. (2 x 2) (4)

1.3 Read Source 1C.

1.3.1 Explain the message conveyed in the photograph. (1 x 2) (2)

1.3.2 How do you think pure communists have reacted to photographs like this? (1 x 2) (2)

1.4 Consult Source 1D.

1.4.1 Which two demolished systems did Lenin believe formed the foundation of the new socialist system? (2 x 1) (2)

1.4.2 What, according to the source, did Lenin believe was essential in a revolution? (2 x 1) (2)

1.4.3 Why do you think Lenin believed that “personal incentive (motivation) will step up production”? (1 x 2) (2)

1.4.4 What is implied by Lenin’s words: “No matter at what cost, no matter how severe the hardships of the transition period may be, we shall not flinch; we shall triumphantly carry our cause to its goal”? (1 x 2) (2)

1.4.5 Explain the usefulness of the source to historians researching the reasons for the implementation of the New Economic Policy. (1 x 2) (2)

1.5 Study Source 1B and Source 1C. Explain how the information in Source 1B supports the evidence in Source 1C regarding how the implementation of the tax-in-kind policy would benefit the peasants. (1 x 2) (2)

1.6 Using the information from the relevant sources and your own knowledge, write a paragraph of about SIX lines (about 60 words) explaining how the introduction of the NEP represented a shift in Bolshevik thinking. (6) [50]

QUESTION 2: TO WHAT EXTENT WAS THE NEW DEAL SUCCESSFUL IN REDUCING UNEMPLOYMENT AND STIMULATING ECONOMIC RECOVERY IN THE USA DURING THE 1930s?

Study Sources 2A, 2B, 2C and 2D and answer the questions that follow.

2.1 Read Source 2A.

- 2.1.1 Why, according to the source, did Roosevelt launch the New Deal? (1 x 2) (2)
- 2.1.2 How many people, according to the source, were unemployed in America by 1933? (1 x 2) (2)
- 2.1.3 Define the concept economic downturn in the context of the American economy. (1 x 2) (2)
- 2.1.4 Explain why farm income doubled between 1932 and 1939. (1 x 2) (2)
- 2.1.5 Explain how a government agency like the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) would have benefited the young people of America. (1 x 2) (2)
- 2.1.6 Comment on "Jobless people from the city benefited as did the rural areas affected by the improvement works". (2 x 2) (4)

2.2 Study Source 2B.

- 2.2.1 What, according to the source, did Roosevelt and the Democratic majorities in Congress deliver? (2 x 1) (2)
- 2.2.2 Define the concept public works in your own words. (1 x 2) (2)
- 2.2.3 List two problems, from the source, that Roosevelt's government faced when allowing local governments to manage public works programs. (2 x 1) (2)
- 2.2.4 Why do you think the Roosevelt administration decided to hire workers themselves, on projects of all kinds in all states and territories? (2 x 2) (4)
- 2.2.5 What is implied by the statement: "They brought power – electrical, to be sure, but with it political and symbolic power, to people and parts of the country that never had it before"? (2 x 2) (4)

2.3 Read Source 2C.

2.3.1 Who, according to the source, did the Industrial Recovery Program bring relief to? (2 x 1) (2)

2.3.2 Quote evidence from the source that suggests that employed workers were better-off during the New Deal. (1 x 2) (2)

2.3.3 Explain what Roosevelt meant by, “the gains of trade and industry, as a whole, have been substantial”. (1 x 2) (2)

2.3.4 Comment on the attitude expressed by Roosevelt regarding the impact of the strikes. (1 x 2) (2)

2.3.5 Explain whether the source would be considered reliable to a historian researching the New Deal. (1 x 2) (2)

2.4 Consult Source 2D.

2.4.1 What message is conveyed in the photograph? (1 x 2) (2)

2.4.2 What do you think the National Chamber of Commerce meant by “Less Taxes – More Jobs”? (1 x 2) (2)

2.5 Refer to Source 2C and Source 2D. Explain how the evidence in Source 2C contradicts the information in Source 2D regarding support of the New Deal. (1 x 2) (2)

2.6 Using the information from the relevant sources and your own knowledge, write a paragraph of about SIX lines (about 60 words) explaining the extent to which the New Deal reduced unemployment and stimulated economic recovery in the USA during the 1930s. (6)

[50]

QUESTION 3: HOW DID THE NUREMBERG LAWS CONTRIBUTE TO THE CREATION OF A RACIALLY BASED NAZI STATE?

Study Sources 3A, 3B, 3C and 3D and answer the questions that follow.

3.1 Read Source 3A.

- 3.1.1 Define the term persecution in the context of the treatment of the Jews in Nazi Germany. (1 x 2) (2)
- 3.1.2 According to the source, what was the focus of Nazi racism between 1933 and 1934? (1 x 2) (2)
- 3.1.3 How, according to the source, did the Nazis target the Jews immediately after taking power? (2 x 1) (2)
- 3.1.4 Comment on "the goal was now to bring about their biological segregation through a process of 'legal' discrimination". (1 x 2) (2)
- 3.1.5 Using the information in the source and your own knowledge, explain how the Nuremberg Laws affected other racial groups. (2 x 2) (4)

3.2 Refer to Source 3B.

- 3.2.1 What, according to the source did Nazi Party leaders announce at their annual rally on 15 September 1933? (2)
- 3.2.2 Quote from the source, the new name given to the German flag. (1 x 1) (1)
- 3.2.3 What laws, according to Dodd, were passed at the Nuremberg congress? (3 x 1) (3)
- 3.2.4 Explain how the introduction of the Nuremberg Laws, allowed the legalised persecution of the Jews. (2 x 2) (4)
- 3.2.5 Explain the reliability of the source to a historian researching the introduction of the Nuremberg Laws. (1 x 2) (2)

3.3 Consult Source 3C.

3.3.1 Define the concept anti-Semitism in your own words. (1 x 2) (2)

3.3.2 Quote evidence from the source that shows that the Nazi elite did not believe they would face any opposition to their new policies. (2 x 1) (2)

3.3.3 Why do you think the wearing of an armband was detrimental (harmful) to the ability of the Jews to go out in public? (2 x 2) (4)

3.3.4 What is implied by, "The Nazis corrupted a system of justice and turned it into a weapon of terror"? (1 x 2) (2)

3.3.5 Comment on: "the only answer was extermination as the final solution to the 'Jewish Question'". (1 x 2) (2)

3.4 Study Source 3D.

3.4.1 Explain why Jews were forced to carry documents like this in Nazi Germany. (2 x 2) (4)

3.4.2 Explain how this document reflects the impact of the Nuremberg Laws. (1 x 2) (2)

3.5 Study Source 3B and Source 3C. Explain how the evidence in Source 3B is supported by the information in Source 3C regarding the impact of the race laws on Jews living in Nazi Germany. (1 x 2) (2)

3.6 Using the information and the relevant sources and your own knowledge, write a paragraph of about SIX lines (60 words) explaining how the Nuremberg Laws contributed to the creation of a racially based Nazi state. (6)
[50]

SECTION B: ESSAY QUESTIONS

Answer at least ONE question, but NOT more than TWO questions, in this section.

Your essay should be about THREE pages long.

QUESTION 4: COMMUNISM IN RUSSIA 1900–1940: CASE STUDY – STALIN’S FIVE-YEAR PLANS

Critically discuss the impact of Joseph Stalin’s Five-Year Plans on transforming Russia from a backward, partially medieval economy, into a modern industrial economy.

Use relevant historical evidence to support your answer.

[50]

QUESTION 5: CAPITALISM IN THE USA 1900–1940

“The Great Depression had a devastating economic and social impact on the citizens of the United States”.

Do you agree with this statement? Use relevant historical evidence to support your answer.

[50]

QUESTION 6: IDEAS OF RACE IN THE 19TH AND 20TH CENTURIES: CASE STUDY – HITLER AND THE JEWS

To what extent did the Nazi regime use eugenics and social Darwinism to justify and implement policies against Jews and other so-called "undesirables" between 1933 and 1945?

Use relevant historical evidence to support your line of argument.

QUESTION 1: HOW DID THE INTRODUCTION OF THE NEP REPRESENT A SHIFT IN BOLSHEVIK THINKING?*SOURCE 1A

The source below explains the reasons for the introduction of the New Economic Policy.

The New Economic Policy (NEP), introduced by Lenin at the Tenth Party Congress in March 1921, represented a major departure from the party's previous approach to running the country. During the civil war, the Soviet state had assumed responsibility for acquiring and redistributing grain and other foodstuffs from the countryside, administering both small- and large-scale industry, and a myriad (a lot) of other economic activities. Subsequently dubbed (named) (by Lenin) "War Communism", this approach actually was extended in the course of 1920, even after the defeat of the last of the Whites.

Many have claimed that War Communism reflected a "great leap forward" mentality among the Bolsheviks, but desperation to overcome shortages of all kinds, and particularly food, seems a more likely motive. In any case, in the context of continuing urban depopulation, strikes by disgruntled workers, peasant unrest and open rebellion among the soldiers and sailors stationed on Kronstadt Island, Lenin chose to take a new approach.

The linchpin (backbone) of NEP was the introduction of a tax-in-kind, set at levels considerably below those of previous requisition quotas, which permitted peasants to dispose of their food surpluses on the open market. This concession to market forces soon led to the denationalisation of small-scale industry and services; the establishment of trusts for supplying, financing and marketing the products of large-scale industry; the stabilisation of the currency; and other measures, including the granting of concessions to foreign investors, all of which were designed to re-establish the link (smychka) between town and country. Referring to NEP as a retreat of the state to the "commanding heights of the economy" (large-scale industry, banking, foreign commerce), Lenin insisted that it had to be pursued "seriously and for a long time".

SOURCE 1B

The source below explains how Lenin tried to fix the economic crisis that was caused by War Communism in Russia.

On April 25, 1921, Lenin introduced the tax-in-kind policy, which would replace the “surplus-food appropriation,” or the policy which assigned a certain amount of the peasants’ produce which the State was entitled to. The produce which was collected would go directly to the State and then be distributed to the rest of the country, in order to ensure that everyone had food. It seemed like a valid system, theoretically. However, once it was put into practice, the country soon faced a famine due to the fact that there were too many people and not enough food. The government was helpless to fix this.

The tax-in-kind policy, which would replace the surplus-food appropriation system with a fixed tax (which the peasants would be informed of ahead of time), however, was meant to ease the burdens which War Communism had placed on the peasants and therefore improve their motivation to work. As Lenin put it, “The peasants will now set to work on their farms with greater confidence and with a will, and that is the main thing.” The tax-in-kind would not only give the peasants incentive to increase production, but it also gave them the freedom to sell what they produced on the market for profit, something that would not have been allowed under War Communism.

Coincidentally, Lenin realized, as Russia’s economy was falling through under the weight of instant Communism, that the peasants made up the majority of the population and although the government had been set up for the Proletariat (working class), the fact of the matter was that only a small percentage of the population (not even 10%) made up an actual population of factory workers and most of the rest were peasantry. Therefore, they would have to be considered in this New Economic Policy because if they were not, just as with War Communism, the economy would continue to suffer.

SOURCE 1D

The text below was written by Lenin and published on 18 October 1921 in Pravda, at that time the official newspaper of the Russian Communist Party.

Our last, but most important and most difficult task, the one we have done the least about, is economic development, the laying of economic foundations for the new, socialist system on the site of the demolished feudal system and the semi-demolished capitalist system.

It is in this most important and most difficult task that we have sustained the greatest number of setbacks and have made most mistakes. How could anyone expect that a task so new to the world could be started without setbacks and without mistakes?

But we have begun it. We shall continue it. At this very moment we are, by our New Economic Policy, correcting a number of our mistakes. We are learning how to continue erecting the socialist structure in a small peasant country without committing such mistakes.

But we have also learned, at least to some extent, another art that is essential in revolution, namely, flexibility: the ability to effect swift and sudden changes of tactics if changes in objective conditions demand them and to choose another path for the achievement of our goal if the former path proves to be inexpedient (unwise) or impossible at the given moment.

Personal incentive (motivation) will step up production; we must increase production first and foremost and at all costs. Wholesale trade economically unites millions of small peasants: it gives them a personal incentive, links them up and leads them to the next step, namely, to various forms of association and alliance in the process of production itself.

No matter at what cost, no matter how severe the hardships of the transition period may be, we shall not flinch; we shall triumphantly carry our cause to its goal.

QUESTION 2: TO WHAT EXTENT WAS THE NEW DEAL SUCCESSFUL IN REDUCING UNEMPLOYMENT AND STIMULATING ECONOMIC RECOVERY IN THE USA DURING THE 1930s?

SOURCE 2A

This source deals with the impact and effectiveness of Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal in response to the Great Depression, focusing on unemployment, industry, agriculture and public works programmes.

Franklin D. Roosevelt launched his 'New Deal' in 1933 in response to the enormous scale of poverty created by the Great Depression of 1929. Following the great crash of the New York stock exchange, banks were collapsing, industrial and farm incomes were down by approximately two thirds and unemployment, which stood at 1,6 million in 1929, shot up to 12,8 million by 1933.

Industry made some gains under the New Deal. From 1933 to 1937 the economy grew by 10 percent a year. However, there was an economic downturn in 1937 and unemployment increased to 19 percent. In 1941, unemployment was still as high as 10 percent and high unemployment looked likely to be permanent. Meanwhile, unions benefited from the New Deal with a tripling of membership in the 1930s.

With farmers making up 30 percent of the national workforce in 1930, agricultural problems had to be tackled under the New Deal. The immediate problem of surplus products and low prices was dealt with by the destruction of 10,4 million acres of cotton crops and the slaughter of 6 million hogs. The Agricultural Adjustment Act (AAA) paid producers to reduce their crops and taxed farm produce processors (e.g. canning factories). The aim was to push prices up by making products scarce. The first problem was the apparent wastefulness this involved. Secondly, farmers only took part voluntarily and so success was likely to be limited. Nevertheless, farm income doubled between 1932 and 1939, reaching $4,6 billion.

Other New Deal projects met with mixed success. In 1933 the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) was set up to employ young people. Half a million were employed in reforestation, rural road building, irrigation and flood control schemes, and soil conservation projects. Jobless people from the city benefited, as did the rural areas affected by the improvement works.

SOURCE 2B

The source below explains how the Federal Government aimed to provide employment during the New Deal.

Taking office in March 1933, with more than ten million unemployed, Roosevelt and Democratic majorities in Congress delivered looser monetary policy, price support for agriculture, union rights and billions of dollars for public works and employment. Economic recovery began immediately and continued thereafter, with rapid growth that nevertheless took years to make up ground lost during the Hoover years.

It took several tries to get the jobs programme going. First, the Roosevelt administration bankrolled projects to be managed at the local level. But major works required advance planning and by the end of the summer of 1933, only 250 000 Americans had jobs on such projects. Some smaller public works did get under way, but letting local governments run them meant there were inequities (unfairness) in working conditions and wages, along with varying degrees of managerial competence.

Eventually the Roosevelt administration decided to hire workers themselves, on projects of all kinds, in all states and territories. Mandating eight-hour days and 40-hour weeks, calibrating wages to assure a decent standard of living and barring child labour, the public works programmes set national expectations for working conditions. Racial discrimination on the works was prohibited first by rule and then by law; the public works programmes gave black Americans unprecedented economic opportunities.

Mostly, the workers were builders. They installed or improved more than half a million miles of roads. They built schools, parks, libraries, post offices, seaports and airports; bridges and hydroelectric dams; stadiums and theatres and humble but vital sidewalks. They brought power-electrical, to be sure, but with it, political and symbolic power, to people and parts of the country that never had it before.

SOURCE 2C

The extract below is taken from one of President Roosevelt's fireside chats, delivered on 4 September 1934.

Benefits of the Industrial Recovery Program have come, not only to labour in the form of new jobs, in relief from overwork and in relief from underpay, but also to the owners and managers of industry because together with a great increase in the payrolls, there has come a substantial rise in the total of industrial profits — a rise from a deficit figure in the first quarter of 1933 to a level of sustained profits within one year from the inauguration of National Recovery Administration.

Now it should not be expected that even employed labour and capital would be completely satisfied with present conditions. Employed workers have not, by any means, all enjoyed a return to the earnings of prosperous times, although millions of underprivileged workers are today far better paid than ever before. Also, billions of dollars of invested capital have today a greater security of present and future earning power than before. This is because of the establishment of fair competitive standards and because of relief from unfair competition in wage cutting which depresses markets and destroys purchasing power.

Nevertheless, the gains of trade and industry, as a whole, have been substantial. In these gains and in the policies of the Administration there are assurances that hearten all forward-looking men and women with the confidence that we are definitely rebuilding our political and economic system on the lines laid down by the New Deal lines which, as I have so often made clear, are in complete accord with the underlying principles of orderly popular government.

During the last twelve months our industrial recovery has been to some extent retarded by strikes, including a few of major importance. I would not minimise the inevitable losses to employers and employees and to the general public through such conflicts. But I would point out that the extent and severity of labour disputes during this period have been far less than in any previous comparable period.

QUESTION 3: HOW DID THE NUREMBERG LAWS CONTRIBUTE TO THE CREATION OF A RACIALLY BASED NAZI STATE?*SOURCE 3A

The extract below is about the escalating persecution of Jews and other marginalised groups in Nazi Germany between 1933 and 1939, highlighting the implementation of racist laws, exclusion from public life and increasing legal discrimination, especially through the Nuremberg Laws.

By examining the persecution of the Jews between 1933 and 1939 — the years that saw the formation of the core of Nazi racism — three distinct phases can be discerned. During the first phase, in 1933 and 1934, the focus was on the exclusion of Jews from public life. Immediately after taking power the Nazis organised an aggressive boycott of Jewish businesses, but very quickly also began to introduce anti-Jewish laws. Jews were no longer permitted to be civil servants or to practise law. Neither could they occupy any sort of public position.

At the same time, the Nazis quickly made clear that their racist policies were not exclusively aimed at Jews. As early as the summer of 1933, they passed a law that allowed the forced sterilisation of people who were considered 'congenitally sick'. By the end of the 'Third Reich' more than 300,000 Germans had fallen victim to this legislation. In the spring of 1935, the Nazis began a new phase in the persecution of the Jews. The goal was now to bring about their biological segregation through a process of 'legal' discrimination. As in 1933, this phase began with anti-Semitic rioting organised by supporters of the Nazi party.

Again the regime reacted by imposing measures 'from above'. In 1935 the Nuremberg Laws, defining who was to be considered Jewish, were announced. The equal rights of Jews as German citizens — in place in Germany since 1871 — was ended. Marriages and extramarital sexual relations between Jews and non-Jews were forbidden. In the years that followed, comprehensive anti-Jewish legislation was introduced which covered almost all aspects of life.

Following Heinrich Himmler's appointment as head of the German police in 1936, the persecution of other stigmatised groups also intensified. The Nuremberg Laws were extended to 'Gypsies', whose freedom of movement was restricted in 1936 through the introduction of special camps.

SOURCE 3B

The information below deals with the Nuremberg Laws, announced by Nazi leaders in 1935, which institutionalised racial discrimination in Germany. It also contains an extract from William E. Dodd, the United States ambassador to Germany from 1933 to 1937.

At their annual rally held in Nuremberg on September 15, 1933, Nazi party leaders announced, after the Reichstag had adopted them, new laws that institutionalised many of the racial theories underpinning Nazi ideology.

The so-called Nuremberg Laws, signed by Hitler and several other Nazi officials, were the cornerstone (foundation) of the legalised persecution of Jews in Germany. They stripped German Jews of their German citizenship, barred marriage and "extramarital sexual intercourse" between Jews and other Germans, and barred Jews from flying the German flag, which would now be the swastika.

On September 16, Ambassador Dodd sent a cable (message) to the secretary of state about the Nuremberg Laws. He wrote:

So far it is only possible to say that main trend of the Nuremberg congress was to cater to radical sentiment (beliefs) within the Party. The laws passed last night concerning citizenship, the swastika as the national flag and the law for the protection of German blood and honour (by means of preventing marriage and sexual intercourse between Aryans and Jews, and flying of the German flag by the latter) obviously need further definition and the Foreign Office advised waiting for executive supplementary regulations. [These, issued on November 14, provided specific definitions of who a Jew was.]

[From <https://www.archives.gov/publications/prologue/2010/winter/nuremberg.html>. Accessed on 07 May 2025]

SOURCE 3C

The source below explains how the Nazis used laws, violence and public identification to persecute Jews, gradually making anti-Semitism normal in society and laying the groundwork for the Holocaust.

The Nuremberg Laws did as much damage to Jewish life as the Nazi violence. Gradually removed from public life and anti-Semitism being codified (arranged) into law, the ideology of persecution became the accepted norm among German citizens and, subsequently, the nations occupied by Nazi Germany. The outburst of anti-Semitic violence was a signal to the Nazi elite that anti-Jewish measures would be welcomed and an increase in radicalism would not be met with any resistance.

As World War II raged on into the 1940s, the Nazis decided that they needed a better system for distinguishing between Jews and Germans, reviving the medieval practice of the “Jew badge” used in various countries throughout Europe. Almost immediately following the invasion of Poland on September 1, 1939, Jews were forced to wear a yellow Star of David or a white armband with a blue Star of David (depending on their location) whenever they went out in public, but on September 6, 1941, the Nazis decreed that all German Jews had to wear armbands beginning September 19th so that everyone could see who was a Jew. This was detrimental (harmful) to the ability of Jews to go out in public.

The Nazis corrupted a system of justice and turned it into a weapon of terror, hate and a false justification for acts against Jewish people, their businesses and their very existence. By twisting the law to attack their own citizens, the Nazis were able to use government systems and independent institutions, such as the police and judiciary, to enforce radical ideas of racial superiority and to launch repeated persecutions against the Jewish people. This false predicate served as a foundation for the determination and decision that the only answer was extermination as the final solution to the “Jewish Question” — the problem of what to do with the Jews.

HISTORY P1 MARKING GUIDELINE

MARKS: 150

---

This marking guideline consists of 29 pages.

1. SOURCE-BASED QUESTIONS

1.1 The following cognitive levels were used to develop source-based questions:

COGNITIVE LEVELS	HISTORICAL SKILLS	WEIGHTING OF QUESTIONS
LEVEL 1	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Extract evidence from sources.</li> <li>Selection and organisation of relevant information from sources.</li> <li>Define historical concepts/terms.</li> </ul>	30% (15)
LEVEL 2	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Interpretation of evidence from sources.</li> <li>Explain information gathered from sources.</li> <li>Analyse evidence from the sources.</li> </ul>	50% (25)
LEVEL 3	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Interpret and evaluate evidence from sources.</li> <li>Engage with sources to determine their usefulness, reliability, bias and limitations.</li> <li>Compare and contrast interpretations and perspectives presented in sources and draw independent conclusions.</li> </ul>	20% (10)

1.2 The information below indicates how source-based questions are assessed:

- In the marking of source-based questions, credit needs to be given to any other valid and relevant viewpoints, arguments, evidence or examples.
- In the allocation of marks, emphasis should be placed on how the requirements of the question have been addressed.
- In the marking guideline, the requirements of the question (skills that need to be addressed), as well as the level of the question, are indicated in italics.
- When assessing open-ended source-based questions, learners should be credited for any relevant answers.
- Learners are expected to take a stance when answering 'to what extent' questions in order for any marks to be awarded.

1.3 Assessment procedures for source-based questions:

- Use a tick (✓) for each correct answer.
- Pay attention to the mark scheme, e.g. (2 x 2) which translates to two reasons and is given two marks each (✓✓✓✓); (1 x 2) which translates to one reason and is given two marks (✓✓).
- If a question carries 4 marks, then indicate by placing 4 ticks (✓✓✓✓).

Paragraph question

Paragraphs are to be assessed globally (holistically). Both the content and structure of the paragraph must be taken into account when awarding a mark. The following steps must be used when assessing a response to a paragraph question:

- Read the paragraph and place a bullet (•) at each point within the text where the candidate has used relevant evidence to address the question.
- Re-read the paragraph to evaluate the extent to which the candidate has been able to use relevant evidence to write a paragraph.
- At the end of the paragraph indicate the ticks (✓) that the candidate has been awarded for the paragraph, as well as the level (1, 2 or 3) as indicated in the holistic rubric and a brief comment, e.g.

_____ • _____ • _____
 _____ • _____ • _____

✓✓✓✓ Level 2

Used mostly relevant evidence to write a basic paragraph:

- Count all the ticks for the source-based question and then write the mark in the right-hand bottom margin e.g.

$\frac{32}{50}$

- Ensure that the total mark is transferred accurately to the front/back cover of the answer script.

2. ESSAY QUESTIONS

2.1 The essay questions require candidates to:

- Be able to structure their argument in a logical and coherent manner. They need to select, organise and connect the relevant information so that they are able to present a reasonable sequence of facts or an effective argument to answer the question posed. It is essential that an essay has an introduction, a coherent and balanced body of evidence and a conclusion.

2.2 Marking of essay questions

- Markers must be aware that the content of the answer will be guided by the textbooks in use at the particular centre.
- Candidates may have any other relevant introduction and/or conclusion than those included in a specific essay marking guideline for a specific essay.
- When assessing open-ended source-based questions, learners should be credited for any other relevant answers.

2.3 Global assessment of the essay

The essay will be assessed holistically (globally). This approach requires the teacher to score the overall product as a whole, without scoring the component parts separately. This approach encourages the learner to offer an individual opinion by using selected factual evidence to support an argument. The learner will not be required to simply regurgitate 'facts' in order to achieve a high mark. This approach discourages learners from preparing 'model' answers and reproducing them without taking into account the specific requirements of the question. Holistic marking of the essay credits learners' opinions supported by evidence. Holistic assessment, unlike content-based marking, does not penalise language inadequacies as the emphasis is on the following:

- The construction of argument
- The appropriate selection of factual evidence to support such argument
- The learner's interpretation of the question.

2.4 Assessment procedures of the essay

2.4.1 Keep the synopsis in mind when assessing the essay.

2.4.2 During the reading of the essay, ticks need to be awarded for a relevant introduction (indicated by a bullet in the marking guideline/memorandum), each of the main points/aspects that are properly contextualised (also indicated by bullets in the marking guideline/memorandum) and a relevant conclusion (indicated by a bullet in the marking guideline/memorandum), e.g., in an answer where there are 5 main points there will be 7 ticks.

2.4.3 Keep the PEEL structure in mind when assessing an essay.

P	Point: The candidate introduces the essay by taking a line of argument/making a major point. Each paragraph should include a point that sustains a major point (line of argument) that was made in the introduction.
E	Explanation: The candidate should explain in more detail what the main point is all about and how it relates to the question posed (line of argument).
E	Example: The candidates should answer the question by selecting content that is relevant to the line of argument. Relevant examples should be given to sustain the line of argument.
L	Link: Candidates should ensure that the line of argument is sustained throughout the essay and is written coherently.

2.4.4 The following symbols MUST be used when assessing an essay:

- Introduction, main aspects and conclusion not properly contextualised ^
- Wrong statement _____
- Irrelevant statement |
|
|
- Repetition R
- Analysis A ✓
- Interpretation I ✓
- Line of argument LOA ⇕

2.5 The matrix

2.5.1 Use of the matrix in the marking of essays.

In the marking of essays, the criteria as provided in the matrix should be used. When assessing the essay, note both the content and presentation. At the point of intersection of the content and presentation based on the seven competency levels, a mark should be awarded.

- (a) The first reading of essays will be to determine to what extent the main aspects have been covered and to allocate the content level (on the matrix).

C	LEVEL 4

- (b) The second reading of essays will relate to the level (on the matrix) of presentation.

C	LEVEL 4
P	LEVEL 3

- (c) Allocate an overall mark with the use of the matrix.

C	LEVEL 4	}26–27
P	LEVEL 3

MARKING MATRIX FOR ESSAY: TOTAL: 50

	LEVEL 7	LEVEL 6	LEVEL 5	LEVEL 4	LEVEL 3	LEVEL 2	LEVEL 1*
PRESENTATION 	Very well planned and structured essay. Good synthesis of information. Developed an original, well balanced and independent line of argument with the use of evidence and sustained and defended the argument throughout. Independent conclusion is drawn from evidence to support the line of argument.	Very well planned and structured essay. Developed a relevant line of argument. Evidence used to defend the argument. Attempts to draw an independent conclusion from the evidence to support the line of argument.	Well planned and structured essay. Attempts to develop a clear argument. Conclusion drawn from the evidence to support the line of argument.	Planned and constructed an argument. Evidence used to some extent to support the line of argument. Conclusions reached based on evidence.	Shows some evidence of a planned and constructed argument. Attempts to sustain a line of argument. Conclusions not clearly supported by evidence.	Attempts to structure an answer. Largely descriptive or some attempt at developing a line of argument. No attempt to draw a conclusion.	Little or no attempt to structure the essay.
CONTENT
LEVEL 7 Question has been fully answered. Content selection fully relevant to line of argument.	47–50	43–46
LEVEL 6 Question has been answered. Content selection relevant to a line of argument.	43–46	40–42	38–39
LEVEL 5 Question answered to a great extent. Content adequately covered and relevant.	38–39	36–37	34–35	30–33	28–29
LEVEL 4 Question recognisable in answer. Some omissions or irrelevant content selection.			30–33	28–29	26–27
LEVEL 3 Content selection does relate to the question, but does not answer it, or does not always relate to the question. Omissions in coverage.				26–27	24–25	20–23
LEVEL 2 Question inadequately addressed. Sparse content.					20–23	18–19	14–17
LEVEL 1* Question inadequately addressed or not at all. Inadequate or irrelevant content.						14–17	0–13

*Guidelines for allocating a mark for Level 1:

- Question not addressed at all/totally irrelevant content; no attempt to structure the essay = 0
- Question includes basic and generally irrelevant information; no attempt to structure the essay = 1–6
- Question inadequately addressed and vague; little attempt to structure the essay = 7–13

SECTION A: SOURCE-BASED QUESTIONS

QUESTION 1: HOW DID THE INTRODUCTION OF THE NEP REPRESENT A SHIFT IN BOLSHEVIK THINKING?

- 1.1 1.1.1 [Extraction of evidence from Source 1 A-L1]
 • March 1921 (1 x 1) (1)
- 1.1.2 [Definition of a historical concept from Source 1A-L1]
 • A war between citizens of the same country.
 • Any other relevant response (1 x 2) (2)
- 1.1.3 Extraction of evidence from Source 1 A-L1]
 • strikes by disgruntled workers
 • peasant unrest
 • open rebellion among the soldiers and sailors stationed on Kronstadt Island
 • urban depopulation (3 x 1) (3)
- 1.1.4 Interpretation of evidence from Source 1A-L2
 • It greatly reduced the amount of tax peasants had to pay
 • Peasants were now able sell surplus on the open market
 • Peasants had incentive to produce more food
 • Any other relevant response. (Any 2 x 2) (4)
- 1.1.5 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 1A-L2
 • War Communism had failed and Russia's economy was weak
 • He believed that the NEP could build Russia's economy
 • It would take time for change to be felt
 • The people needed to be patient
 • Any other relevant response. (Any 2 x 2) (4)
- 1.2 1.2.1 [Definition of a historical concept from Source 1B-L2]
 • Peasants were able to pay tax in kind, that is with goods rather than money during the New Economic Policy
 • Any other relevant response. (1 x 2) (2)
- 1.2.2 [Extraction of evidence from Source 1B-L1]
 • Too many people
 • Not enough food (2 x 1) (2)
- 1.2.3 [Extraction of evidence from Source 1B-L1]
 • "which the peasants would be informed of ahead of time" (1 x 2) (2)

1.2.4 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 1B-L2]

- Peasants had greater incentive to produce more food
- The peasants no longer feared food requisitioning
- Peasant farmers were in favour of the NEP, and supported the government
- Any other relevant response (Any 2 x 2) (4)

1.2.5 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 1B-L2]

- Russia's economy was still backward and based on agriculture
- The majority of the population were peasant farms
- The government was set up to benefit the working class; however, Russia only had a small working class population
- If the presents needs were not met, the economy would continue to suffer
- If industry was to grow, the peasants would have to supply enough food to the new working class population
- Any other relevant response (Any 2 x 2) (4)

1.3 1.3.1 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 1C-L2]

- The NEP allowed peasants to sell goods on the open market
- More food was produced because of the NEP
- The buying power of the Russian peasants increased as a result of the NEP
- Any other relevant response (Any 1 x 2) (2)

1.3.2 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 1C-L2]

- They would have viewed it as a betrayal of communism and a retreat towards capitalism.
- They felt it undermined the goals of a socialist state by allowing for private ownership and profit-driven enterprise. (Any 1 x 2) (2)
- Any other relevant response.

1.4 1.4.1 [Extraction of evidence from Source 1D-L1]

- Feudalism
- Capitalism (2 x 1) (2)

1.4.2 [Extraction of evidence from Source 1D-L1]

- Flexibility
- The ability to effect swift and sudden changes of tactics
- To choose another path for the achievement of our goal if the former path proves unwise. (Any 2 x 1) (2)

1.4.3 terpretation of evidence from Source 1D-L2]

- Production in Russia would increase if people were motivated to work
- A capitalist type system was needed to increase production levels in Russia
- The Russian, economy would expand if peasant production increased
- Any other relevant response (Any 1 x 2) (2)

1.4.4 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 1D-L2]

- Lenin is expressing unwavering dedication to the Communist cause
- He acknowledges that the transition from capitalism to socialism will be extremely challenging and may come with suffering
- Lenin remains confident that the revolution will succeed
- Any other relevant response (Any 1 x 2) (2)

1.4.5 [Ascertaining Usefulness of Source 1D-L3]

- The source is useful because:
- This source is an article written by Vladimir Lenin, the leader of the Bolshevik Party and head of the Soviet government at the time
- Lenin was directly involved in creating and implementing the NEP
- The source gives insight into the official reasoning and motivations behind the policy
- Any other relevant response. (Any 1 x 2) (2)

1.5 [Comparison of evidence from Sources 1B and 1C to ascertain how they support each other-L3]

- Source 1B states that peasants would be able to sell surplus produce on the open market. Source 1C is a photograph showing peasants selling surplus food on the open market.
- Source 1B states that the peasant would be motivated to work harder. Source 1C shows that the peasant did work harder as they have produced surplus food.
- Source 1B states that the workers would have incentive to increase production. Source 1C shows an increase in production as the peasant have excess food to sell on the open market.
- Any other relevant response. (Any 1 x 2) (2)

1.6 [Interpretation, evaluation and synthesis from relevant sources-L3]

- The introduction of the NEP represented a major departure from the party's previous approach to running the country (Source 1A)
- Small scale industry and services were denationalised (Source 1A)
- NEP was referred to as a retreat of the state (Source 1A)
- The Tax-In-Kind policy, which would replace the surplus-food appropriation system (Source 1B)
- The NEP gave them (peasants) the freedom to sell what they produced on the market for profit, something that would not have been allowed under War Communism (Source 1B)
- The NEP allowed for limited forms of capitalism (Source 1C)
- Peasants were allowed to sell surplus produce on the open market Not allowed under War Communism (Source 1C)
- The NEP created the foundations for the new socialist system (Source 1D)
- NEP showed the importance of flexibility in Bolshevik thinking (Source 1D)
- The NEP marked a shift from War Communism to a more mixed economy (Own knowledge)
- Bolsheviks allowed small businesses and peasants to trade for profit, which was a step back from strict socialist control
- By introducing the NEP, the Bolsheviks abandoned some key communist principles (Own knowledge)
- The New Economic Policy allowed for private businesses and farming profits, which was against communist theory (Own knowledge)
- Any other relevant response

QUESTION 2: TO WHAT EXTENT WAS THE NEW DEAL SUCCESSFUL IN REDUCING UNEMPLOYMENT AND STIMULATING ECONOMIC RECOVERY IN THE USA DURING THE 1930's?

- 2.1 2.1.1 [Extraction of evidence from Source 2A-L1]
 • "in response to the enormous scale of poverty created by the Great Depression" (1 x 2) (2)
- 2.1.2 [Extraction of evidence from Source 2A-L1]
 • 12,8 million (1 x 2) (2)
- 2.1.3 [Definition of a historical concept from Source 2A-L2]
 • A period when the American economy slowed down, marked by reduced business activity, falling production and sales, rising unemployment, and declining income levels.
 • Any other relevant response. (1 x 2) (2)
- 2.1.4 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 2A-L2]
 • Farmers were paid to produce less, creating a higher demand and increasing prices
 • Farmers received subsidies from the government, which increased profits
 • Any other relevant response (Any 1 x 2) (2)
- 2.1.5 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 2A-L2]
 • It provided many with employment
 • Earning an income would have improved their standard of living
 • It allowed for further job creation
 • Any other relevant response (Any 1 x 2) (2)
- 2.1.6 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 2A-L2]
 • The New Deal helped both urban and rural areas
 • Unemployed people living in cities got work through programs like the CCC
 • Rural areas gained from improved infrastructure and conservation projects
 • Rural areas gained long-term benefits, like better roads, flood control, and soil conservation
 • It showed the government's active role in creating jobs and supporting development during the Depression
 • Any other relevant response (Any 2 x 2) (4)

- 2.2 2.2.1 [Extraction of evidence from Source 2B-L1]
- Less strict monetary policy
  - price support for agriculture
  - union rights
  - billions of dollars for public works and employment (Any 2 x 1) (2)
- 2.2.2 [Definition of a historical concept from Source 2B-L1]
- refers to infrastructure projects and services that are financed and carried out by the government for the benefit of the general public
  - Any other relevant response (1 x 2) (2)
- 2.2.3 [Extraction of evidence from Source 2B-L1]
- inequities (unfairness) in working conditions and wages
  - varying degrees of managerial competence (2 x 1) (2)
- 2.2.4 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 2B-L2]
- The Roosevelt administration believed the federal government needed to take control and provide jobs directly
  - The government could ensure that money was spent correctly
  - The Roosevelt administration did not trust local government
  - Hiring workers in all states and territories allowed the government to ensure that help was distributed evenly and fairly
  - The government wanted control over major infrastructure projects
  - Any other relevant response (Any 2 x 2) (4)
- 2.2.5 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 2B-L2]
- The New Deal brought electricity to rural and underdeveloped areas, modernising them
  - Access to electricity gave people greater control over their lives and futures
  - It showed the federal government was actively supporting neglected regions
  - These communities became more included in national affairs and had greater influence in political decisions
  - Any other relevant response (Any 2 x 2) (4)

- 2.3
- 2.3.1
- [Extraction of evidence from Source 2C-L1]
- Owners
  - Managers
- (2 x 1)
- (2)
- 2.3.2
- [Extraction of evidence from Source 2C-L1]
- “workers are today far better paid than ever before”
- (1 x 2)
- (2)
- 2.3.3
- [Interpretation of evidence from Source 2C-L2]
- Trade and industry had grown significantly
  - The New Deal improved the American economy
  - The New Deal created jobs for many unemployed Americans
  - Any other relevant response
- (Any 1 x 2)
- (2)
- 2.3.4
- [Interpretation of evidence from Source 2C-L2]
- Roosevelt shows a balanced attitude, recognising the harm caused by strikes, but also trying to highlight progress by noting a decrease in their frequency and severity
  - Roosevelt seems sympathetic to all parties affected by strikes — employers, workers, and the public —acknowledging the "inevitable losses" they face
  - Roosevelt adopts an optimistic tone, admitting the negative effects of strikes, but stressing that the situation has improved compared to previous years
  - Any other relevant response
- (Any 1 x 2)
- (2)
- 2.3.5
- [Ascertaining Reliability of Source 2D-L3]
- Reliable
- Primary Source as it is a speech by President Roosevelt, delivered during the New Deal
  - It offers direct insight into how the New Deal worked
  - Any other relevant response

OR

- Not Reliable
- Source is likely to be biased, as Roosevelt is promoting his administration’s policies and portraying the New Deal in a positive light to gain or maintain public support
  - The speech highlights successes and downplays failures
  - The source omits or understates the negative aspects of the New Deal
  - Any other relevant response.
- (Any 1 x 2)
- (2)

2.4 2.4.1 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 2D-L2]

- Not all Americans were in favour of the New Deal
- Roosevelt received public opposition to his policies
- It reflected opposition to New Deal spending and federal job creation
- Any other relevant response (Any 1 x 2) (2)

2.4.2 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 2D-L2]

- Reducing taxes would leave companies with more money to hire workers
- The slogan implied that government spending and high taxes were hurting job creation
- Lower taxes would encourage businesses to invest more money, creating more jobs
- Any other relevant response (Any 1 x 2) (2)

2.5 [Comparison of evidence from Source 2C and Source 2D to ascertain similarities-L3]

- Source 2C is from Roosevelt, the American president, during the New Deal, and is in favour of the new deal. Source 2D shows the National Chamber of Commerce protesting against the high taxes of the New Deal.
- Source 2C is in favour of the New Deal, stating how it created jobs for many Americans. Source 2D differs as it implies that the New Deal was preventing job creation.
- Source 2C implies that the New Deal benefited workers and employers, while in Source 2D the implication is that workers and employers are not benefiting from the New Deal policies.
- Any other relevant response (1 x 2) (2)

2.6 [Interpretation, evaluation and synthesis from relevant sources-L3]

SUCCESSFUL

- Industry made some gains under the New Deal. (Source 2A)
- The economy grew by 10 per cent a year. (Source 2A)
- Farm income doubled between 1932 and 1939, reaching $4,6 billion. (Source 2A)
- Half a million were employed in reforestation, rural road building, irrigation and flood control schemes, and soil conservation projects. (Source 2A)
- Jobless people from the city benefited as did the rural areas affected by the improvement works. (Source 2A)
- Conditions for workers were improved. (Source 2B)
- The New deal brought electricity to many parts of America. (Source 2B)
- The Industrial Recovery Program created a substantial rise in the total of industrial profits (Source 2C)
- The gains of trade and industry, as a whole, were substantial. (Source 2C)
- Millions of underprivileged workers were far better paid than ever before. (Source 2C)
- The New Deal created millions of jobs through public works programmes, like the CCC and WPA. These gave people temporary employment and boosted morale. (Own knowledge)
- The New Deal provided emergency relief and work, which helped many families survive the Depression. It improved infrastructure and supported banks and farmers. (Own knowledge)
- The New Deal was most successful in offering hope and security. It introduced long-term reforms, like Social Security and labour rights. (Own knowledge)
- Any other relevant response

NOT SUCCESSFUL

- There was an economic downturn in 1937 and unemployment increased to 19 per cent. (Source 2A)
- Unemployment was still as high as 10 per cent and high unemployment looked likely to be permanent. (Source 2A)
- Other New Deal projects met with mixed success. (Source 2A)
- It took several attempts to get the jobs programme going. (Source 2B)
- There were inequities (unfairness) in working conditions and wages, along with varying degrees of managerial competence. (Source 2B)
- Industrial recovery was to some extent retarded by strikes. (Source 2C)
- Many New Deal policies faced opposition from the business sector. (Source 2D)
- Roosevelt faced opposition from the National Chamber of Commerce. (Source 2D)
- There was opposition to the increased taxes. (Source 2D)
- The New Deal eased suffering but couldn't fully revive the economy alone. (Own knowledge)
- Unemployment never dropped to pre-Depression levels during the 1930s, so recovery was only partial. (Own knowledge)
- The New Deal did not go far enough to stimulate private investment or industrial growth. (Own knowledge)
- Any other relevant response

QUESTION 3: HOW DID THE NUREMBURG LAWS CONTRIBUTE TO THE CREATION OF A RACIALLY BASED NAZI STATE?

- 3.1 3.1.1 [Definition of a historical term from Source 3A-L2]
- Persecution, refers to the discrimination, oppression, and violence directed at Jews through laws, social exclusion and eventually mass murder. (1 x 2) (2)
  - Any other relevant response
- 3.1.2 [Extraction of evidence from Source 3A-L1]
- "the exclusion of Jews from public life". (1 x 2) (2)
- 3.1.3 [Extraction of evidence from Source 3A-L1]
- An aggressive boycott of Jewish businesses
  - Began to introduce anti-Jewish laws (2 x 1) (2)
- 3.1.4 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 3A-L2]
- Nazis used laws to enforce racial separation, aiming to isolate Jews, not just socially or politically, but biologically.
  - By framing discrimination as "legal", the Nazi's gave their racist ideology the appearance of legitimacy.
  - Using legislation like the Nuremburg Laws to prevent intermarriage and interaction between Jews and non-Jews, ultimately worked toward the goal of a racially "pure" Aryan state.
  - Any other relevant response (Any 1 x 2) (2)
- 3.1.5 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 3A-L2]
- The Nuremburg Laws allowed for the persecution of other minority groups in Nazi Germany
  - The Nuremburg laws were also applied to the Gypsies (Roma & Sinti), who lost their freedom of movement and were placed in camps
  - Black Germans were labelled as racially inferior, often sterilized, and excluded from schools and jobs
  - Mixed-race Germans were subjected to restrictions on marriage, education, and employment; many were sterilised under racial hygiene laws.
  - Any other relevant response (Any 2 x 2) (4)

- 3.2 3.2.1 [Extraction of evidence from Source 3B-L1]
- New laws that institutionalised many of the racial theories underpinning Nazi ideology (1 x 2) (2)
- 3.2.2 [Extraction of evidence from Source 3B-L1]
- Swastika (1 x 1) (1)
- 3.2.3 [Extraction of evidence from Source 3B-L1]
- Concerning citizenship
  - The swastika as the national flag
  - The law for the protection of German blood and honour (3 x 1) (3)
- 3.2.4 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 3B-L2]
- It stripped Jews of citizenship, making them foreigners in their own country
  - They defined who was Jewish, allowing the state to target people based on ancestry
  - They justified discrimination through legal means, making persecution appear lawful
  - They excluded Jews from political rights, like voting and holding office
  - They banned marriage and sexual relations between Jews and non-Jews, isolating them socially
  - Any other relevant response (Any 2 x 2) (4)
- 3.2.5 [Ascertaining Reliability of Source 3B-L3]
- The Source is reliable because:
- It is a primary document from the time, written by U.S. Ambassador Dodd, who was present in Germany and reporting events as they happened.
  - It reflects the official international reaction and gives insight into how the laws were understood by foreign diplomats.
  - It is reliable as it shows how the laws were perceived diplomatically and how the Nazi regime presented them to the outside world.
  - Any other relevant response (Any 1 x 2) (2)
- 3.3 3.3.1 [Definition of a historical term from Source 3C-L1]
- Hostility to or prejudice against Jewish people
  - Any other relevant response (1 x 2) (2)
- 3.3.2 [Extraction of evidence from Source 3C-L1]
- "Semitic violence was a signal to the Nazi elite that anti-Jewish measures would be welcomed"
  - "An increase in radicalism would not be met with any resistance" (2 x 1) (2)

3.3.3 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 3C-L2]

- It made Jews easily identifiable, exposing them to public harassment and violence
- It caused shame and humiliation, discouraging them from appearing in public
- It led to social exclusion, as others avoided or refused to interact with them
- Jews were unable to escape persecution
- Any other relevant response

(Any 2 x 2) (4)

3.3.4 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 3C-L2]

- The Nazis used laws to enforce racism and discrimination, rather than protect rights
- The legal system punished innocent people, especially Jews, for their identity
- The Courts and police served Nazi goals, spreading fear instead of justice
- Any other relevant response

(Any 1 x 2) (2)

3.3.5 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 3C-L2]

- The decision to exterminate Jews was not random – it was a deliberate, organised policy of mass murder driven by Nazi ideology
- It reflects the extreme brutality and racism of the Nazi regime
- This led to the genocide of six million Jews during the Holocaust.
- Any other relevant response

(Any 1 x 2) (2)

3.4 3.4.1 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 3D-L2]

- To legally identify Jews in Nazi Germany
- To restrict the rights of Jews
- To control or limit the movement of Jews
- To enforce racial laws and track Jewish individuals
- To aid Nazi officials in excluding Jews from public life
- Any other relevant response

(Any 2 x 2) (4)

3.4.2 [Interpretation of evidence from Source 3D-L2]

- The Nuremburg Laws defined who was Jewish and stripped Jews of rights
- This ID shows that Jews were officially registered
- The document is proof that the Nuremburg Laws led to a system of constant surveillance.
- Any other relevant response

(Any 1 x 2) (2)

3.5 [Comparison of evidence from Source 3B and Source 3C to ascertain similarities-L3]

- Source 3B states the Nuremburg Laws legally removed Jewish rights and institutionalised racial discrimination. Source 3C supports this by showing how laws were used to exclude Jews from public life and justify violence.
- Source 3B states how Jews were stripped of citizenship and banned from relationships with Germans. Source 3C supports this by stating that Jews were made to wear armbands to visibly mark and isolate them, reinforcing social separation.
- Source 3B shows that anti-Semitic beliefs became widely accepted through legal backing. Source 3C confirms that this acceptance allowed Nazi institutions to enforce laws with little to no public resistance.
- Source 3B states that race laws laid the foundation for persecution. Source 3C connects this persecution directly to the "Final Solution" — the planned extermination of Jews
- Any other relevant response (Any 1 x 2) (2)

3.6 [Interpretation, evaluation and synthesis from relevant sources-L3]

- Jews were excluded from public life (Source 3A)
- Anti-Jewish Laws were introduced (Source 3A)
- Nazi policies were not only aimed at Jews (Source 3A)
- Laws were passed to forcefully sterilise people considered to be 'congenitally' sick (Source 3A)
- The Nuremburg Laws denied Jews their citizenship rights (Source 3A)
- The Nuremburg Laws were extended to Gypsies, (Source 3A)
- The Nuremburg Laws allowed for the legalised persecution of Jews in Germany (Source 3B)
- Laws barred marriage and "extramarital sexual intercourse" between Jews and other Germans (Source 3B)
- Jews were barred from flying the German flag (Source 3B)
- The Laws provided for provided specific definitions of who a Jew was (Source 3B)
- Jews were forced to wear a yellow Star of David (Source 3C)
- Laws allowed the Nazis to attack their own citizens (Source 3C)
- Led to the Final Solution (Source 3C)
- Jews were force to carry identity cards so they could be easily identified (Source 3D)
- This allowed them to be legally persecuted (Source 3D)
- The Nuremburg Laws legally defined who was considered Jewish, based on ancestry, not religion (Own knowledge)
- These laws stripped Jews of German citizenship, making them foreigners in their own country (Own knowledge)
- This racial separation turned Jews into second-class residents and allowed the Nazi state to deny them legal rights and protections, reinforcing racial hierarchy (Own knowledge)
- The Nuremburg Laws encouraged everyday racism by legitimising anti-Semitic behaviour (Own knowledge)

- The laws provided a legal basis for further persecution, leading eventually to ghettos, deportations, and the Holocaust (Own knowledge)
- Any other relevant response

SECTION B: ESSAY QUESTIONS

QUESTION 4: COMMUNISM IN RUSSIA 1900–1940: CASE STUDY–STALIN’S FIVE-YEAR PLANS

[Plan and construct an original argument based on relevant evidence using analytical and interpretative skills based on relevant evidence].

SYNOPSIS

Candidates should take a clear stance on the statement – for example, agreeing that Stalin’s Five-Year Plans were instrumental in transforming Russia’s economy, highlighting that, while some progress was made, it came at a significant human and economic cost. The introduction should briefly outline the main points the candidates will use to support their argument.

MAIN ASPECTS

INTRODUCTION: Candidates need to critically discuss the impact of Joseph Stalin’s Five-Year Plans on transforming Russia from a backward, partially medieval economy into a modern industrial economy.

ELABORATION:

- Stalin’s Rejection of the NEP:
- The New Economic Policy (NEP), introduced by Lenin, was viewed by Stalin as ideologically inconsistent with communist principles.
- Stalin believed the NEP encouraged capitalism and slowed industrial development.
- In 1928, Stalin abolished the NEP and replaced it with a command economy directed by centralised state planning.
- Objectives of the Five-Year Plans:
- Stalin aimed to rapidly industrialise the USSR, reduce dependency on foreign technology, and prepare for potential military conflicts.
- Sought to make the USSR self-sufficient and internationally competitive.
- Role of Gosplan:
- Gosplan, the State Planning Committee, was responsible for setting production targets, allocating resources, and coordinating economic planning.
- Played a key role in implementing and monitoring the Five-Year Plans.
- First Five-Year Plan (1928–1932):
- Focus: Heavy industry and infrastructure
- Propaganda was used to inspire the workers
- Factories produced according to state quota systems

- Achievements:
  - Rapid industrial expansion: over 1,500 factories built, including tractor factories (Stalingrad) and motor vehicle plants (Moscow)
  - Major increases in production of coal, iron, steel, and electricity (hydroelectric projects – Dnieper Dam)
  - Expansion of transport infrastructure (railways, canals)
  - Compulsory education created a skilled workforce
- Shortcomings:
  - Neglect of consumer goods led to shortages and poor living conditions.
  - Unrealistic targets led to falsification of statistics and inefficiencies.
- Collectivisation:
  - Stalin's collectivisation campaign sought to consolidate small peasant farms into large, state-controlled units.
  - Resistance from Kulaks (wealthier peasants) led to harsh repression and mass deportations.
  - Collectivisation caused:
    - A drastic drop in agricultural output
    - Severe famine (notably in Ukraine), leading to the deaths of 2 million people
  - Persistent shortages of meat, dairy, and grain
- Second Five-Year Plan (1933–1937):
  - Continued emphasis on heavy industry, but increased focus on consumer goods and improving living standards
  - Transport systems modernised – expanded railways and improved logistics.
  - Adjustments to collective farming: peasants allowed to keep surplus produce after fulfilling state quotas
  - Introduction of state farms (sovkhozes), operated like factories with paid wages
  - Use of fertilisers, modern machinery, and improved farming techniques to raise agricultural productivity
  - Some economic stabilisation occurred, but worker sacrifices were still significant (long hours, low wages, strict discipline)
- Third Five-Year Plan (1938–1941):
  - Focused increasingly on military production due to the threat of World War II
  - Continued expansion of heavy industry, but consumer goods production stagnated again
  - Plan disrupted by the German invasion in 1941, but laid the groundwork for the USSR's wartime economy
- IMPACT ON THE ECONOMY:
  - Positive Outcomes:
    - The USSR became a major industrial power within a decade
    - Major advances in infrastructure and heavy industry
    - Improved state control over the economy and workforce
  - Negative Outcomes:
    - Massive human cost: forced labour, famine, and purges

- Poor quality of life for ordinary citizens due to neglect of consumer needs
- Agricultural output remained inconsistent, with recurring shortages
- Stalin's authoritarian control led to economic inefficiencies and fear-driven productivity
- Any other relevant response

Conclusion: Candidates should tie up their argument with a relevant conclusion. [50]

QUESTION 5: CAPITALISM IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, 1900–1940:
IMPACT OF AND RESPONSES TO THE CRISIS OF CAPITALISM.

[Plan and construct an original argument based on relevant evidence using analytical and interpretative skills based on relevant evidence].

SYNOPSIS

Candidates need to state whether they agree or disagree with the statement that the Great Depression had a devastating economic and social impact on the citizens of the United States of America. Candidates must use historical evidence to support their line of argument.

MAIN ASPECTS

Candidates should include the following aspects in their responses:

Introduction: Candidates should take a stance by indicating whether they agree or disagree with the statement. They should also indicate how they intend to support their line of argument.

ELABORATION

- Economic Impact:
- Stock Market Crash (1929): The collapse of the stock market marked the beginning of the Depression. Panic selling caused the value of stocks to plummet, wiping out billions of dollars in wealth.
- Bank Failures: Thousands of banks across the U.S. collapsed as people rushed to withdraw their savings. Without federal insurance, many lost all their money.
- Business Closures: With little consumer spending and no access to credit, businesses failed rapidly. This led to widespread layoffs and major economic decline.
- Mass Unemployment: By 1933, over 13 million Americans — about 25% of the labour force — were unemployed. There were no state or federal unemployment benefits at the time.
- Collapse of Farming Sector:
- Overproduction and Falling Prices: Farmers were already struggling in the 1920s. When demand dropped, crop prices fell so low that many couldn't afford to harvest or sell their produce.
- Dust Bowl: Poor agricultural practices and a severe drought during the early 1930s created the Dust Bowl in states like Oklahoma, Kansas, and Texas. Farms were destroyed.
- Thousands of farmers migrated west in search of work.
- This created greater competition for jobs in towns and cities.
- Debt and Foreclosures: Farmers who had taken loans during better times defaulted. Banks seized properties, forcing many to abandon their land.
- Prices of goods and services dropped dramatically, worsening the economic decline.

Social Impact:

- Widespread Poverty: Millions of Americans lost homes, jobs, and access to basic necessities.
- Malnutrition and hunger were common, especially among children.
- Homelessness and Hoovervilles:
  - Many people became homeless and built shantytowns, known as "Hoovervilles", after President Hoover, who was blamed for the crisis.
  - These informal settlements sprung up in parks, empty lots, and city outskirts across the country.
- Mental Health and Despair:
  - The hopelessness of the situation led to a significant increase in mental illness and suicide rates.
  - Families broke apart under the pressure of financial hardship.
  - Many men simply abandoned their families as they felt that they could not provide for them.
- No social security:
- No formal welfare systems, unemployment benefits, or food assistance from the government.
- People relied on private charities and soup kitchens.
- African Americans, already facing racial discrimination, were often the "last hired, first fired".
- Any other relevant response

Conclusion: Candidates should tie up their argument with a relevant conclusion.

[50]

QUESTION 6: IDEAS OF RACE IN THE 19TH AND 20TH CENTURIES: CASE STUDY – HITLER AND THE JEWS

[Plan and construct an original argument based on relevant evidence using analytical and interpretative skills.]

SYNOPSIS

In writing this essay, candidates should assess the extent to which the Nazi regime used eugenics and social Darwinism to justify and implement policies against Jews and other so-called 'undesirables' between 1933 and 1945.

MAIN ASPECTS

Candidates should include the following aspects in their responses:

Introduction:

Candidates must take a stance and indicate the extent to which the Nazi regime used eugenics and social Darwinism to justify and implement policies against Jews and other so-called 'undesirables' between 1933 and 1945. They should support their argument with relevant historical evidence.

ELABORATION

- Hitler's Dictatorship and Nazi Ideology
- Hitler and the Nazi Party promoted a totalitarian regime.
- Central to Nazi ideology was the belief in the racial superiority of the Aryan race (Herrenvolk).
- Hitler aimed to create a racially "pure" Germany.
- Propaganda and Racial Superiority
- Extensive use of propaganda to glorify Aryans and demonise others
- Promoted the idea of the "pure" Aryan race as superior to all others
- German children were taught how to identify Jews (Poisonous Mushroom)
- Eugenics and Racial Policy
- Nazi racial ideas were grounded in eugenics and social Darwinism
- Policies aimed at improving the genetic quality of the German population
- Targeted the so-called "unfit" for sterilisation, persecution, or elimination
- Anti-Semitism in Nazi Germany
- Jews were blamed for Germany's economic, political, and social problems
- Hitler was determined to eliminate all Jews from Germany
- Anti-Semitic policies were central to Nazi rule.
- Boycott of Jewish Businesses – Early economic attack on Jews
- Jews were banned from public places and the civil service
- Jewish children were banned from German schools
- Night of Broken Glass (Kristallnacht) – Nationwide violent attacks on Jewish homes, businesses, and synagogues
- Nuremburg Laws – Deprived Jews of citizenship; banned marriages between Jews and Aryans
- Racial stereotyping and scapegoating used to justify exclusion and violence

- Persecution of Other Non-Aryans
- Roma and the Sinti People (Gypsies):
  - Accused of being habitual criminals
  - Forbidden from marrying Aryans
  - Deported to ghettos and concentration camps where many died from starvation or were killed
- Dark-skinned Germans:
  - Especially children of mixed-race parentage, called "Rhineland bastards"
  - Victims of forced sterilisation and racial discrimination
- Jehovah's Witnesses:
  - Refused loyalty to the Nazi state or participation in military service
  - Did not allow children to participate in Nazi rallies
  - Imprisoned or sent to concentration camps
- Homosexuals:
  - Viewed as a threat to Nazi ideals of reproduction and Aryan purity
  - Targeted by a special Gestapo unit
  - Faced castration, imprisonment, or death in concentration camps
- The "Final Solution"
- The systematic plan to exterminate the Jewish population of Europe
- Implementation of genocide through mass shootings, gas chambers, and forced labour
- Nazi policies from 1933 to 1945 were deeply rooted in eugenics and social Darwinism
- These ideologies were used to justify widespread persecution and genocide of Jews and other so-called "undesirables".
- Any other relevant response

Conclusion: Candidates should tie up their argument with a relevant conclusion. [50]

TOTAL: 150
