A NEW ERA OF INCLUSIVITY

- 1 As a proud representative of the differently abled community, Mia le Roux opens up about how her journey to the title is a personal victory and a significant stride towards inclusivity<sup>1</sup> and empowerment in South Africa.
- 2 Many beauty pageants have been associated with glitz, glamour and poise for years. However, over the years, the Miss SA organisation has made strides<sup>2</sup> in stretching the normal boundaries of beauty to include as many phenomenal women as possible. One such is Mia le Roux’s crowning in August – during Women’s Month – as Miss South Africa 2024, bringing a refreshing and powerful narrative to the forefront. 5
- 3 Mia entered the pageant with a mission far beyond the glittering crown. For her, the timing was perfect, aligning with a pivotal<sup>3</sup> moment in her life as she sought to amplify the voices of those who, like her, have faced the stigma and challenges of living with a disability. ‘My life experience of being part of a marginalised<sup>4</sup> community as a deaf woman inspired me to enter,’ she shares. ‘By stepping onto a platform that would give me a voice, I aim to help break the stigma around being differently abled, create awareness and spark critical conversations on what it means to be inclusive.’ 10 15
- 4 She says her participation in the pageant is a bold statement that challenges preconceived notions about disability and beauty. ‘I want my journey to be a beacon of hope, showing that beauty is not confined to conventional standards and that true beauty lies in resilience, courage and the desire to make a difference,’ she adds. 20
- 5 Mia acknowledges that her reign as Miss South Africa has already inspired many people living with disabilities, shedding light on the numerous challenges they face in a society that is still learning to be inclusive. ‘South Africa still has a long way to go. Over 90% of people living with disabilities are unemployed. There is a lot of doubt in our capabilities, and we get pushed aside and overlooked’. 25
- 6 Despite her intelligence and capabilities, she has often encountered scepticism and hesitation when seeking opportunities. ‘People often doubted my ability and did not want to take the ‘risk’ of employing someone like me,’ she says. ‘Moreover, the lack of accessibility in everyday experiences, such as attending the theatre without subtitles, further isolates those with disabilities from fully participating in life’s simple joys.’ Through her advocacy during her reign, Mia aims to educate and encourage inclusivity, not only in the workplace but in every aspect of life. Her message is clear: South Africa cannot reach its full potential unless it becomes a truly united nation. 30 35

- 7 Mia's journey to the crown is deeply rooted in the values she learnt during her upbringing in Oudtshoorn, a small town in the Western Cape, which shaped her into the compassionate and resilient woman she is. Although she moved to Cape Town four years ago to create a better life for herself, she proudly identifies as an 'Oudtshoorniet'. 40
- 8 'A small town has a beautiful mentality of looking out for one another. It is not each person for themselves.' This sense of community, coupled with the teachings of her parents, instilled in Mia a strong belief in herself, regardless of the opinions of others. 'My parents taught me to believe in myself and not take on opinions to which I cannot relate. For example, if someone calls me deaf and dumb, I know I am deaf and intelligent.' Empathy and compassion, core values from her childhood, continue to guide her as she navigates her reign and advocacy work. 45
- 9 Mia states that her reign as Miss South Africa is more than just a title; it is a call to action. She is using this year to build a solid foundation for the rest of her life, with a focus on tackling all forms of exclusion – whether spatial, gender-based or related to disability. 'My ultimate goal is to create a South Africa that is inclusive, united and truly reflective of its diverse population. I hope to carry the dream of many, particularly those who have felt marginalised and excluded. I hope my story will be of courage, determination and an unwavering commitment to making a difference.' 55

2. List your SEVEN points in full sentences, using no more than 70 words.
3. Number your sentences from 1 to 7.
4. Write only ONE point per sentence.
5. Use your OWN words as far as possible.
6. Indicate the number of words you have used in brackets at the end of your summary.

TEXT C*CREATING AN ONLINE PORTFOLIO

Do not underestimate the importance of an online portfolio. Potential employers often look at online profiles before deciding who they will employ. It is important to have something that will set you apart from the rest.

Exclude work that does not showcase your current ability. Take time to reflect on the work you are most proud of and showcase that. Show the type of work you want. Work that was once an accurate reflection of your skills may now be outdated. It is also important to remember, you must compile your portfolio logically. It helps to arrange your work to highlight sections that give an overall impression of your abilities and styles.

Ensure employers can find your work quickly. The path to your work must be short and if you choose a more advanced hosting and website option, ensure the speed of page loading is not slow.

Keep your portfolio fresh with new projects. Whenever you finish a project, ensure you upload it on to your profile. This gives you an excuse to share your latest great moment. Use social media to your advantage. Place your work on a blog and distribute it regularly on social media.

Each project you have worked on has a story and people often want to hear this and know the thought processes behind your work. Explain the background of each project included in your portfolio. Remember to include basic details in your portfolio, but do not underestimate just how easy it is to let things slip.

5.1 Read the passage (TEXT F) below, which has some deliberate errors, and answer the set questions.

TEXT F*TAKE THE PLUNGE

- 1 Working out inside water might just be what you are looking for. While aqua workouts were once perceived as chiefly for rehabilitation, experts are now realising they could be one of the most important tools in the fitness box. They are seeing great results for everyone – from the obese to the elite. Aqua experts know how to get the most out of pool workouts. 5
- 2 Water workouts combine resistance training and cardiovascular exercise. Fortunately, the water's cooling effect means participants will not get hot and sweaty, even in summer. Water workouts are good for recovering after exercising as the water has a massaging effect on the muscles.
- 3 They are also ideal for the obese and self-conscious as bodies are not on show. People recovering from injury can still maintain a high level of fitness. Moving limbs back and forth in the water means back and front muscles are worked equal. 10
- 4 To get more from your aqua workout, move faster as this increases the strength of both the heart and muscles. Focussing on speed avoids the tendency to let the water does the work. 15

ENGLISH FIRST ADDITIONAL LANGUAGE P1 MARKING GUIDELINE

MARKS: 80

This marking guideline consists of 9 pages.

---

INSTRUCTIONS TO MARKERS

1. Candidates are required to answer ALL the questions.
2. These marking guidelines serve as a guide to markers. Some responses may require a marker's discretion.
3. Candidates' responses should be assessed as objectively as possible.

MARKING THE COMPREHENSION

- Because the focus is on understanding, incorrect spelling and language errors in responses should not be penalised unless such errors change the meaning/understanding. (Errors must still be indicated.)
- If a candidate uses words from a language other than the one being examined, disregard those words, and if the answer still makes sense, do not penalise. However, if a word from another language is used in a text and required in an answer, this will be acceptable.
- For open-ended questions, no marks should be awarded for YES/NO or I AGREE/I DISAGREE. The reason/substantiation/motivation is what should be considered.
- When one-word answers are required and the candidate gives a whole sentence, mark correct provided that the correct word is underlined/highlighted.
- When two/three facts/points are required and a range is given, mark only the first two/three.
- Accept dialectal variations.
- For multiple-choice questions, accept BOTH the letter corresponding with the correct answer AND/OR the answer written out in full.
