MARKING GUIDELINE

This Question Paper consists of 15 pages

Downloaded from Stanmorephysics.com

1. SOURCE-BASED QUESTIONS

1.1 The following cognitive levels were used to develop source-based questions:

Cognitive Levels	• Historical skills	Weighting of questions
LEVEL 1	•Extract evidence from sources Selection and organisation of relevant information from sources Define historical concepts/terms	30% (15)
LEVEL 2	•Interpretation of evidence from sources Explain information gathered from sources Analyse evidence from sources	40% (20)
LEVEL 3	•Interpret and evaluate evidence from sources Engage with sources to determine its usefulness, reliability, bias and limitations Compare and contrast interpretations and perspectives presented in sources and draw independent conclusions	30% (15)

1.2 The information below indicates how source-based questions are assessed:

- In the marking of source-based questions, credit needs to be given to any other valid and relevant viewpoints, arguments, evidence or examples.
- In the allocation of marks, emphasis should be placed on how the requirements of the question have been addressed.
- In the marking guidelines, the requirements of the question (skills that need to be addressed) as well as the level of the question are indicated in italics.

1.3 Assessment procedures for source-based questions

- Use a tick (ü) for each correct answer.
- Pay attention to the mark scheme e.g. (2 x 2) which translates to two reasons and is given two marks each (üüüü); (1 x 2) which translates to one reason and is given two marks (üü).
- If a question carries 4 marks then indicate by placing 4 ticks (üüüü).

Paragraph question

Paragraphs are to be assessed globally (holistically). Both the content and structure of the paragraph must be taken into account when awarding a mark. The following steps must be used when assessing a response to a paragraph question:

- Read the paragraph and place a bullet (.) at each point within the text where the candidate has used relevant evidence to address the question.
- Re-read the paragraph to evaluate the extent to which the candidate has been able to use relevant evidence to write a paragraph.
- At the end of the paragraph indicate the ticks (√) that the candidate has been awarded for the paragraph; as well as the level (1, 2, or 3) as indicated in the holistic rubric and a brief comment e.g.

_____ . _____ √√√√√

Level 2

Used mostly relevant evidence to write a basic paragraph

- Count all the ticks for the source-based question and then write the mark on the bottom margin to the right, e.g 32/50
- Ensure that the total mark is transferred accurately to the front/back cover of the answer script.

2. ESSAY QUESTIONS

2.1 The essay questions require candidates to:

Be able to structure their argument in a logical and coherent manner. They need to select, organise and connect the relevant information so that they are able to present a reasonable sequence of facts or an effective argument to answer the question posed. It is essential that an essay has an introduction, a coherent and balanced body of evidence and a conclusion.

2.2 Marking of essay questions

Candidates may have any other relevant introduction and/or conclusion than those included in a specific essay marking guideline for a specific essay.

2.3 Global assessment of the essay

Downloaded from Stanmorephysics.com

The essay will be assessed holistically (globally). This approach requires the teacher to assess the essay as a whole, rather than assessing the main points of the essay separately. This approach encourages the learner to write an original argument by using relevant evidence to support the line of argument. The learner will not be required to simply regurgitate content (facts) in order to achieve a level 7 (high mark). This approach discourages learners from preparing essays and reproducing them without taking the specific requirements of the question into account. Holistic marking of the essay credits learners' opinions that are supported by evidence. Holistic assessment, unlike content-based marking, does not penalise language inadequacies as the emphasis is on the following:

- The learner's interpretation of the question
- The appropriate selection of factual evidence (relevant content selection)
- The construction of an argument (planned, structured and has an independent line of argument)

2.4 Assessment procedures of the essay

2.4.1 Keep the synopsis in mind when assessing the essay.

2.4.2 During the reading of the essay, ticks need to be awarded for a relevant introduction (which is indicated by a bullet in the marking guideline), the main aspects/body of the essay that sustains/defends the line of argument (which is indicated by bullets in the marking guideline) and a relevant conclusion (which is indicated by a bullet in the marking guideline). For example, in an essay where there are five (5) main points there could be about seven (7) ticks.

2.4.3 The following additional symbols can also be used:

2.4.4 introduction, main aspects and conclusion not properly contextualised Λ

- wrong statement _____ • irrelevant statement I

I

- repetition R
- analysis A
- interpretation 1

LOA Line of Argument

Downloaded from Stanmorephysics.com

2.4.5 Keep the PEEL structure in mind when assessing an essay.

P	Point: The candidate introduces the essay by taking a line of argument/making a major point. Each paragraph should include a point that sustains the major point (line of argument) that was made in the introduction.
E	Explanation: The candidate should explain in more detail what the main point is about and how it relates to the question posed (line of argument).
E	Example: The candidates should answer the question by selecting content that is relevant to the line of argument. Relevant examples should be given to sustain the line of argument.
L	Link: Candidates should ensure that the line of argument is sustained throughout the essay and is written coherently.

2.5 The matrix

2.5.1 Use of the matrix in the marking of essays

In the marking of essays, the criteria as provided in the matrix should be used. When assessing the essay note both the content and presentation. At the point of intersection of the content and presentation based on the seven competency levels, a mark should be awarded.

(a) The first reading of essays will be to determine to what extent the main aspects have been covered and to allocate the content level (on the matrix).

C	LEVEL 4

(b) The second reading of essays will relate to the level (on the matrix) of presentation. Allocate an overall mark with the use of the matrix.

SECTION B: ESSAY QUESTIONS

QUESTION 2: THE RISE OF THE NDEBELE KINGDOM

Downloaded from Stanmorephysics.com

[Plan and construct an original argument based on relevant evidence using analytical and interpretative skills-L3]

SYNOPSIS

Candidates should state to what extent the Northern interior of Southern Africa was affected by the rise of the Ndebele Kingdom under the leadership of Mzilikazi.

MAIN ASPECTS

Candidates should include the following aspects in their response:

Introduction: Candidates should take a line of argument stating to what extent the Northern interior of Southern Africa was affected by the rise of the Ndebele Kingdom under the leadership of Mzilikazi who led the Ndebele away from the Zulu Kingdom, then migrated across the Drakensberg to the west of the Usutu River.

Candidates should indicate how they intend supporting their line of argument.

ELABORATION

TO A GREAT EXTENT

- Mzilikazi was the grandson of Zwide of the Ndwandwe and a member of the Khumalo clan.
- During the Zulu–Ndwandwe conflict, Mzilikazi switched his allegiance from Zwide to Shaka, whom he served as a military commander.
- After a successful military expedition, Mzilikazi appears to have made Shaka angry by refusing to hand over the required number of cattle as tribute.
- Therefore in 1821 Mzilikazi led the Ndebele away from the Zulu Kingdom. They migrated across the Drakensberg to the west of the Usutu River.
- Mzilikazi appeared to have been a ruthless general who conquered and incorporated the people he came across in his flight.
- His resilience and tenacity are indicated by how he built a new nation in totally unknown territories.
- The Ndebele fell upon the Pedi between the Olifants/Lepelle River and the Steelpoort/Tubatse River and broke up this tribe.
- The Ndebele then moved to the area on the banks of the Vaal River near present-day Potchefstroom and Heidelberg.

Downloaded from Stanmorephysics.com

- Here they attacked the Taung and Fokeng (Kololo) and acquired large herds of cattle.
- The Ndebele stayed here between 1823 and 1827, even though they were often attacked by the Taung and the 'Bergenaars' of the Kora leader Jan Bloem. Mzilikazi and his Ndebele then moved away from these raiders, north of the Magaliesberg, to a spot between the Elands/Kgetleng River and the Pienaars/ Moretele River.
- Mzilikazi became the undisputed ruler of the region to the north of the Vaal River.
- The Bergenaars and the Taung continued to attack the Ndebele and stole many cattle but were in turn defeated by them in a campaign. In 1831 Mzilikazi launched a campaign against the Sotho.
- His forces attacked Thaba Bosiu, King Moshoeshoe's stronghold, unsuccessfully. Near the end of 1831, Mzilikazi attacked the Phuthing of Ratsebe. After a raid by the Tswana, Griqua and Kora, Mzilikazi moved near Kuruman in the Mosega Valley.
- The Ndebele were also involved in a great but inconclusive battle against Dingane's Zulu forces at the Sand River. Both sides suffered massive losses. In 1832 Mzilikazi attacked the Hurutshe under Mokgathla in the Marico Valley.
- Mokgathla fled and the remaining Hurutshe were assimilated with the Ndebele Mzilikazi and the missionary Robert Moffat had a good relationship.
- Any other relevant responses
- Conclusion: Candidates should tie up their argument with relevant conclusion.
- LESS EXTENT:
- Candidates may take up an argument against the statement, to show the negative effects of the rise of the Ndebele Kingdom under the leadership of Mzilikazi.
- .Violence and Displacement: The Ndebele, under leaders like Mzilikazi, were known for their military prowess and aggressive expansionist policies. They disrupted the lives of other communities in the region, leading to violence and displacement.
- Raiding and Cattle Theft: The Ndebele were also known for raiding other communities, often targeting cattle and other resources. This practice further destabilized the region and led to conflict and resentment.

Downloaded from Stanmorephysics.com

- British Expansion: The Ndebele Kingdom was eventually conquered by the British, leading to the establishment of a colonial state in the region. This had a profound impact on Ndebele society and culture.
- Land Confiscation and Forced Labor: The colonial government implemented policies that led to land confiscation and forced labour for Ndebele people. These policies created economic and social hardship.
- Cultural Suppression: The colonial authorities also sought to suppress Ndebele culture and traditions, promoting a sense of cultural inferiority.
- Succession Disputes: The Ndebele kingdom also experienced internal conflicts and succession struggles, which contributed to instability and violence.
- Accusations of Witchcraft: Accusations of witchcraft were sometimes used as a political weapon to eliminate rivals or gain power within the kingdom.
- Ndebele and Shona Relations: The Ndebele and Shona peoples, who inhabited the same region, experienced periods of conflict and tension, which further destabilized the region.
- Displacement and Loss of Resources: The Ndebele's expansion and raiding activities caused significant displacement and loss of resources for other communities in the region.
- Cultural and Social Disruption: The Ndebele's military and political dominance disrupted the social and cultural fabric of other communities, leading to lasting effects.

Conclusion: Candidates should tie up their argument with relevant conclusion.
